- h) Ninguém podia ver a roupa do imperador, mas não dizia nada.
- b) O menino disse que o imperador estava sem roupa.
- g) Todo mundo morreu de rir.
4. A resposta desse exercício é pessoal. Em nossa opinião, o imperador mudou porque percebeu que as coisas do império eram mais importantes que as roupas que ele tanto admirava.

5. THE EMPEROR'S NEW CLOTHES

Once upon a time there was an emperor who liked beautiful clothes very much. That was the only thing he used to think about, but he did not realize what his vanity was costing the nation. He cared so much about his wardrobe that he had more tailors than soldiers.

One day, two strangers arrived in the empire's capital city.

"We are the master tailors of a faraway country. We can make the most beautiful clothes in the world", they said.

"That is fantastic", the emperor replied.

And they continued: "Our clothes have the magical quality of being invisible to anyone who is stupid or unfit for his office."

The emperor wanted these clothes so he gave them lots of money. But the two strangers just pretended they were making the clothes. The emperor was very curious and sent his prime minister to see how the work was coming along. The prime minister was shocked because he could not see the clothes. But he did not say a word. He was afraid of being stupid. In fact, nobody could see the clothes not even the emperor. But nobody said a word. At last, the parade day arrived and the emperor went for a walk on the streets wearing what he thought were his new clothes. People did not say anything. The emperor was naked. But suddenly, a little boy said:

"Daddy, the emperor has no clothes on!" and his father replied:

"Be quiet! Don't be silly!" But the child repeated:

"The emperor has no clothes on!"

Everybody started to laugh and after a while, even the emperor laughed. And the master tailors laughed hardest of all - because they showed that it was more fun to admit you were silly together than to pretend you were wise alone.

6. REGULARES: liked; used to; did not realize; cared; arrived; replied; continued; wanted; pretended; repeated; started; laughed; showed.
IRREGULARES: was; said; gave; went; thought.

7.

- a) There is a book on the table.
b) There is a ball under the chair.
c) There are many books on the shelf.
d) There is a car in front of her house.
e) There are ten cars in the parking lot.

Aula 35 - Texts

1. "On a summer day not so very long ago, a little girl played with her three teddy bears in the shade of a big tree. The girl, who was called Goldilocks, on account of her shiny golden hair, spent the whole morning in the woods..."

"...Before long Goldilocks came to a delightful little house...Flowers bloomed in window boxes, and there were three doors of different sizes. "I wonder who lives here!" exclaimed Goldilocks...."

2. Características da narração, nesse texto:

A história do Gato de Botas apresenta um começo (Once upon a time...) e parte do desenvolvimento (One day, the old miller...) que levará a um fim (With a wave and a wink,...). Ela apresenta os diálogos, personagens que tem seu comportamento mudado; o problema que gerará a mudança da personagem, etc.

3. Características particulares das HQs:

Há a presença de imagens e palavras; os diálogos estão representados em balões; as imagens estão dentro de quadrinhos. A fala final da personagem apresenta as letras maiores que as dos outros quadrinhos, mostrando o estado de espírito da personagem, que está entre aflita e desesperada. A participação do outro personagem - o menino - é feita por meio de suas expressões indicadas pelo desenho.

4. "The sophisticated conservatism, vigorously pursued, has created a global privatized bank of exceptional stability, capable of weathering the roughest storms...." (Publicidade sobre um banco privado.)

Os adjetivos e substantivos qualificam o banco como o melhor e mais confiável, essa é uma das estratégias para convencer o consumidor.

"Let's make things better" (Assinatura do anúncio de uma indústria de eletro-eletrônicos.)

O uso do envolvimento do leitor - por meio do "Let's" - é também uma das estratégias para convencer. O adjetivo de superioridade - "better" -, também demonstra a tentativa de mostrar os produtos de forma mais atraentes para o público.

"Hyundai. The best way everyday" (Assinatura do anúncio de uma marca de carro.)

O uso do superlativo - The best - serve para separar o produto dos outros e tentar convencer o consumidor de que é verdade.

"Naxos... for those who know a good thing when they hear it" (Anúncio de uma coleção de CDs.)

Aqui temos o adjetivo "good" qualificando o produto e a qualificação do consumidor que poderá se identificar com o tipo que é descrito no anúncio: aqueles que conhecem uma coisa boa ao ouvi-la.

"The 7000 series: First class recordings, innovative repertoire" (Anúncio de uma coleção de Cds de música clássica.)

Novamente, o uso de adjetivos que ressaltam as qualidades do produto são o ponto alto deste anúncio: "First class e Innovative".

5.
